IAG Congress XXIX, September 11-14, 2019

“Colleagues, collaboration and commitment to excellence is the foundation upon which the IAG is built. As a member of the latest generation of dentists to take on the age-old dilemmas of dental practice the IAG serves as a resource where sound gnathologic principles are preserved while new technologies are allowed to challenge the test of time. As I begin to step foot and fear these challenges the IAG is there, preserving the past and embracing the future.”

Brian Brodine

“IAG is one of the few organizations which not only provides top notch speakers, but also amazing meeting venues and activities. The meetings are planned with super fun unique events that really make this meeting stand out. The members are some of the most highly educated dentists I know of, and they have always been open and excited to share their knowledge. This group focuses on many current and relevant dental topics that are practical for private practice. And after sitting in lectures all day, everyone is eager to have a good time together at the evening events!”
